General Description

The Sattahip fabrication yard is located at the Mahidol Adulayadej Naval Dockyard in Chonburi Province, 185 kilometres South East of Bangkok. The facility has direct access to deepwater wharfage and is serviced by excellent transportation links. Sattahip's capability encompasses fabrication of wellhead platforms, jackets, processing platforms, and skidmounted and module process facilities for the onshore and offshore oil and gas, chemical, minerals and power general industries.

The yard covers an area of approximately 85,000 square metres of all weather compacted surface with separate material laydown and warehouse areas providing secure storage of project materials. The dedicated warehouse and on-site office facilities area allows for a flexible layout and adequate space for client offices and expansion.

Access to 85 metres of sea frontage is available to accommodate the loadout of fabricated structures and to receive materials by sea, if necessary.

The secure site is monitored by 24-hour security.
